Tactik recounts the escapades of the young members of a mixed soccer team under the guidance of a philosophical trainer who rates the joys of playing the game above victory at any cost! As a result, these girls and boys are not heroes and don't aspire to be soccer stars; they simply want to play for the pleasure of spending time together with their friends.

Tactik also delves into the family lives of its young protagonists. We encounter vastly different family experiences, representing a diversity of cultural communities. The family environments of our young people reveal motivating surroundings where parents offer the necessary tools to their children to help them confront the outside world.
